WE PURPOSE

In the following pages to unite in a closer relationship Tyler High School and Tyler Junior College, by presenting to the best of our ability the events of the year 1929-1930. If we have succeeded in making this a veritable memory book of this year, we are satisfied.

We dedicate this volume of the Liou-Apache Alcalde to a bigger and better school.

ACHIEVEMENT

When wisdom made rich hearts to feel
What good could come of stone and steel
In hands of skilled magicians who
Mix mortar to make dreams come true,
Great institutions once foretold
Grew into being, proud and bold.
Within such walls, importunate
Ambition battles hard with Fate
Until both find that Time, alone
Triumphant, laughs upon his throne
To taunt and mock. With sudden frown
Ambition takes from him the crown.

He is a lord and reigns supreme
Who breathes great life into a dream!

—Ina Fidelia Roberts.

My Ship of Dreams

From the port of imagination
My Ship of Dreams set sail one day
To an unknown destination,
Just to linger, not to stay.

It was packed with joys and sorrows,
Happy moments, hope, desire,
Longings for the great tomorrows
When my bounty I acquire.

In its hull I stored my dream house
Just a cottage built for two.
In its mast I left my memories,
Of days of happiness I once knew.

How I hope she is ne'er o'er taken!
By selfish, blundering foes,
For they would my cargo—waken,
Things no man must ever know.

Dorothy Joe Nichols.

CHEMISTRY

I think that I shall never see,
A subject as hard as chemistry;
With acids and bases and equations I worry,
Until at last I'm all in a flurry.

Me for chemistry and chemistry for me,
Is all I think of at period three;
But I'm not the first nor the last to be,
A total wreck over chemistry.

—Howard Thurmond.

ODE TO HOPE

"Hope springs Eternal in the human breast,"
Thus quoth the poet of old.
This truth he brought to all the rest
Holds promise dear as gold.

When clouds loom darkest overhead
And naught but drear despair remains,
Hope steals within our weary hearts
And comforts all our bitter pains.

—Ruth Nash.

THE NEW YEAR

Just a little bit of laughter,
Just a little bit of care,
All go to make us happy
On this glad New Year.

It is not the sorrow or the trouble,
That makes the New Year bright,
It's the bubbling joy of happy hearts,
That starts the New Year right.

The Tyler Hi-Lights is a little newspaper record of the activities of Tyler High School which appears each Sunday through the generous courtesy of the "Tyler Daily Courier Times." Through the efforts of a willing staff, the splendid support of the student body, and the efficient sponsorship of Miss Rowell and Miss Edwards, the "Hi-Lights" was made possible during the year 1930.

It is the hope of the staff of '30 that in the years to come the "Hi-Lights" will be an even greater aid in developing school spirit and loyalty.

The work of the Library Club this year has been consistent in every way with its watchword; Courtesy, service, and efficiency. With organized effort has come growth, both in the number of volumes and in the consequent intellectual influence. Interest in the library has broadened in scope, and time is speeding the ideal on the way. The great hope of the Library Club is that its influence may be lasting and beneficial, and that it may be said of it that it helped to make the ideal library a reality.

The purpose of the Tyler High Chamber of Commerce is to promote better school spirit and co-operation among the students and faculty of Tyler High School.

The program outlined for 1930 has been:

Helping raise money for the building of two tennis courts.
Installing more drinking fountains.
Lending assistance to the Safety Patrol Work.
Remedying the crowded conditions in the cafeteria.
Securing a picture for the study hall.

In future years the Tyler High Chamber of Commerce will prove itself to be even a greater asset and will go a long way toward promoting good will among the students and faculty of the high school.

Slogan: "Clean living, clean speech, clean athletics, clean scholarship, contagious Christian character.

The High-Y Club is an organization of the Junior and Senior boys of high school who possess the qualities of better manhood. The purpose of the High-Y is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character.

The outstanding event of the year has been a "Father and Son" banquet. For the remainder of the year, the members and sponsors have carefully planned a combination of picnics, fishing trips and various other forms of recreation. An event looked forward to by High-Y members is the annual District Convention.

CLIFFORD GREGORY, Fullback
Captain and Captain-Elect

"Tuffy" was not only an excellent captain, but he was one of the best all-around players on the squad in plunging the line, catching and blocking passes, backing up the line and tackling. He was an excellent captain in that he played a clean game and proved an example to the squad.

CLARENCE BOONE, Tackle

Clarence was one of the hardest and surest tackles on the team. He entered the game with a determination to win. This was always before him, and he never gave up until the last whistle was blown.

NEWTON BERRYMAN, End

"Newt" was good at receiving passes and tackling. It was indeed a tremendous task for the opponents to circle Berryman's end. He was always down under punts, ready to pounce on any opponent who touched the ball.

J. T. BRUMLEY, End

"Jiggs," although light, has proven his worth. He played his best game against Marshall. Jiggs has three more years in which he will show how he can really play football.

Carl Greer, Center

When it came to blocking passes and backing up the line, no one excelled Carl. In centering the "pigskin," he always hit the spot; no opponent ever crossed his portion of the line unhindered.

Albert Hill, Fullback

By his hard plunging, "Mule" became a dependable gainer for the team. "Mule" showed that he had the vim and spirit to make a great player. In the next two years, we may count on him to make one of the classiest players in the district.

Neal Harville, End

"Redneck" was chosen as an all-district high school end on every team that was selected. His tackling was excellent, and his blocking was not surpassed by anyone in the district.

Harry Johnson, Quarterback

Harry was the best passer in the district, and his side-stepping was excellent. As the team general, "Koot" not only surpassed high school quarterbacks, but he ranked among many college quarterbacks. We are indeed lucky to have such a heady triple-threat man with us next year.

Cone Carter, Running Guard

"Doc" Carter was always the pep of the team. He played an excellent defensive game and on the offense he swept his opponents off their feet like a dashing tornado. "Doc" made his showing in leading interference.

Gilbert Cole, Center

Although "Rosy" was hindered by a bad knee, on the defense he was in on every play, and he could always be depended on to back up the line. It is our regret that we lose such a wonderful center as Gilbert next season.

Garland Cole, Guard

Garland was a man who never gave up. At the beginning of the season he was an excellent reserve center, but as the season came to a close, he displayed his ability as a first-string, scrappy guard.

Harrol Ellis, Tackle

At the beginning of the season Harrol was only a sub, but his love for battle gave him a place with the regulars, and his fighting spirit kept it for him.

John S. Morris, Halfback

John S. is one of the hardest blockers in the district gridiron. His broken field running was praised by everyone. The team was confident of gaining several yards when the pigskin was passed to John.

Billy Stamps, Tackle

Billy never had much to say, but when it came to hitting them hard, setting them back, blocking punts and passes and laying disaster, he was right there.

Johnny Morrow, End

Johnny hails to us from Wortham. He won his fame in T. H. S. by his excellent ability to catch passes. This is Johnny's last year to play high school football, but we assure you that if he had another year he would deal the opponents misery.

Harvey Tipton, Halfback

Harvey's fighting spirit caused him to be one of the flashiest backs of Tyler High. He showed his opponents that determination and aggressiveness will take the place of experience.

Davis Wilcox, Guard

Davis was a true definition of destruction to the opponents' line. Dave was one of those players who didn't have the word "quit" in his vocabulary, and his fighting spirit was an inspiration to the rest of the team.

John Wilcox, Guard

John was an excellent all-'round linesman. He played a good offensive game, and would push through the rival team's wall of defense to get in on every play. Next season we may depend on John to do some real damage to our opponents.

Floyd Aten, Business Manager

The support that the "Tylerites" gave our team this year was greatly due to the efficient publicity given by Floyd's peppy "Gridiron Flashes' and "Punts and Passes."

Floyd cared for the needs of the team in a commendable fashion

LION LOOK OUTS

Harry Shuford

FOOTBALL

In 1929 one of the best football teams that ever attempted to uphold the name of Tyler High was produced. The team was victorious in nine out of eleven games played. The success of the Lions was due to the teamwork of the boys and the splendid coaching given by Coaches G. A. Foltz, Rufus King and Sam Davis. This year's team was not built around one man, but every player worked to win games for dear old T. H. S.

The prospects for next year's football team are very favorable. Since there were only five letter men of 1928 eligible to play in 1929, Tyler started out with a practically new team. The 1930 team will be chosen from eleven letter men and about forty other good candidates, who are out for the team.

BASKETBALL

The High School Quintet had the best basketball season ever staged by Tyler. The roaring five won the tri-state meet at Shreveport, La., and were edged out of the district meet by the Athens Hornets who, for the last two years, have won the National High School Championship. If Athens and Tyler were not in the same district, the writer believes the State Championship would have been decided by the game of Tyler vs. Athens.

Although Tyler loses some of her best players this year, it will not be an easy task for the National Champions or any other team to subdue her quintet, provided they will work hard under the excellent supervision of Coach Foltz.

BASEBALL

As far as playing baseball is concerned, for the last few years Tyler High had much better have come out for tiddley-winks; however, with the advent of Coach Davis, the baseball team of 1930 has made a name in this district. The splendid captainship of Herchel Welsh has added to the strength of the team.

Tyler loses only a few of her baseball players this year, and with a promising bunch of rookies coming out, we should have a team entitled to the Championship of 1931.

TRACK TEAM

Considering the inexperienced track men that Tyler High had this year, we have had a very successful team. Tyler should take off many honors next year, because the track men will have had more training.

IN REVIEW

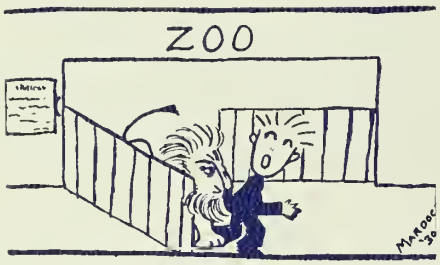

The well-fed lion is gay
It seems
Since he can eat up
Many teams.

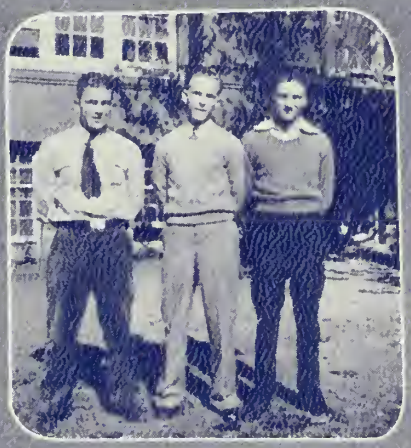

"One and one are two,"
Said he—
"But two may be as one
You see!"

'Tis true.
But many kinds are in

The Apache Council is a representative group composed of members from each of the five council groups and two faculty members. The Council was organized the first six weeks of the fall semester and was active during the entire year.

The Apache Council is to act as an executive body through which representatives from the student body and the faculty may come together to discuss the problems and various phases of school activities.

During the past year the organization has accomplished and investigated many valuable problems. Among these are: the nomination of officers of the student body, the selection of the editor and business manager of THE ALCALDE, the discussion and investigation concerning a Junior College paper, the beautification of our library, the construction of a constitution to be offered to the student body for adoption.

TYLER JUNIOR COLLEGE LIBRARY

The Apaches certainly could not say that they did not have an attractive place conducive to study this year. At last the dream of our Chief was realized: to have a separate library for T. J. C.

The floor of the library was covered with cork in order to deaden the footsteps of energetic braves and squaws. Twelve long tables with chairs for seventy-two students furnished adequate accommodation for studying. Pictures, hanging flower baskets, ferns, and a revolving book rack added to the beauty of the room.

More than two hundred fifty books have been added to the library this year, making a total of about thirteen hundred volumes. Copies of twenty-four current magazines have been available for reference. The Dallas News arrived daily and the New York Times once a week. The Apaches are indeed grateful to Col. T. N. Jones, Miss Mattie Jones, Mrs. Fitzgerald, and Miss Howell for their outstanding gifts to the library.

The library was open from 8:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. for the day students and from 6:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. for the night school. Every period found the library occupied, because the Apaches appreciated this beautiful atmosphere for study.

The Honor Society of Tyler Junior College was organized the second six weeks of the fall semester. All students making either of the two honor rolls for one six weeks are eligible for membership in the organization. However, this does not qualify them for the Phi Theta Kappa Chapter.

The purpose of this body is to interest the students in making the honor roll; to cultivate fellowship; and to petition for a chapter in Phi Theta Kappa, a national scholarship society, this petition being formulated in time for initiation ceremonies at the close of the year.

Tennis has seemed to be the most popular sport among the Apaches this year. Perhaps the reason for its popularity was the tennis court presented to the Junior College during the first week of March. These new double courts of shell gravel were completed at the cost of approximately one thousand dollars.

The Tennis Club was organized the first six weeks of the second semester with nearly thirty-five members on the roll. The members of the club kept the courts rolled and lined during the season, a task performed with evident cheerfulness. On April 9th the tennis tournaments began in order to decide the T. J. C. champions. The final results of the tournaments are not available as this book goes to press, but the close scores of the matches indicate that the winners will be real "racketeers."

The Athletic Association was organized the first week in October. Every boy enrolling in Tyler Junior College becomes a members of the association.

The organization was formed to promote cleaner and better athletics in Tyler Junior College, to spread enthusiasm for student activity among the student body, and to enable every boy to take part in some form of athletics.

The club met three times a week in the Fall until the basketball season opened. At these meetings such sports as wrestling, boxing, volleyball, basketball, and handball were studied and participated in.

TRADITIONS OF T. J. C.

Know ye the land where traditions abide? 'Tis a wondrous land to behold, a land of mystery. Wouldst go thither, oh world soul? Cast thyself aside then and, wrapped in pensiveness, let thy spirit drift away into fantasies. Follow the sun westward, for the land of tradition lies beyond the dying day and is reached only after dusk has stolen softly over all the toilworn world.

'Tis dusk now and we have left the cosmos far behind. We near the mystic land of T. J. C. It is here that many happy warriors dwell in peace. Shall we pause to learn the nature of their contented lot? Here is the great teepee, where braves and squaws alike gather to read, study, ponder, and rest. Silence prevails. Taciturnity rules supreme. It is here that one can view the stately totem pole of gold and black, the sacred symbol of the tribes, embodying all the institutions and customs endeared to and revered by the tribesmen. We pause to listen to the messages of the Pow Wow, runner of the tribe and bearer of tidings, good and evil. He tells us that there is to be a great feast, given by the chieftains in honor of the tribesmen. We also learn that at a later date the tribesmen will in like manner honor the chieftains. Next, we enter the council hall where the Apaches meet in solemn conclave, deciding momentous questions of the tribe. We then pass out of the main teepee into a tiny wigwam where a group of squaws and braves labour diligently, preserving the records of the brave deeds and exploits of the tribe. This is the wigwam of Chief Alcalde. But we must hurry on. We pass five large lodges where council groups convene at due season to guide the destiny of the tribe. Out on the prairies near the village, many Indians play at athletic games to determine who is the strongest and most agile, and the swiftest of foot. Out on the winding, narrow trail many squaws shuffle slowly along. They belong to the Atta Kula Kula's, "friends of the white men."

What a happy scene to gaze upon! A tribe enjoying peace and contentment. Many scalps of past encounters dry in the wind of their teepee entrances. Their storehouses bulge with much food.

Dawn creeps above the hills. The morning sun mounts, rosy and refreshed. The mists are gathering over the pine trees, and birds stir in their nests, emitting faint chirps. It is high time for all dreams to end. We must leave this land of charm and fascination, for such as we are must not be found stealing about when the rose bears dew. Common folks might not understand. Good-bye, dreamland. Farewell, traditions.

Traditions? Yes. They abound within this reservation. Apache traditions. Traditions of T. J. C. They are more like dreams than traditions, and dreams that shall crowd our fading memories.

—Leon Gorsline.

Prof. W. A. Nelson,
Dean Tyler Junior College,
Tyler, Texas.

Cedar Bayou, Texas,
March 31, 1930.

Dear Prof. Nelson:

Please accept my grateful thanks for yourself and the young people who joined you in sending me such warm greetings on my birthday. My experience of the last few days has taught me that it is a glorious thing to grow old in Texas.

With thanks and all good wishes.

Sincerely,
(Signed) JOHN P. SJOLANDER.

CONTENTMENT

As I sit down and gaze out upon God's green earth, I wonder why I'm ever unhappy. Oh, but this world is beautiful if we only view it as a work of God and not a place that is contaminated by every evil deed and thought that man and the devil can devise

Now, 'tis springtime; the grass and trees are vivid green while the purple and red of tulips stretch their gorgeous cups high, high up in the sunshine and stand protectingly over the gay yellow daffodils, which blossom at their side. I hear the sweet thrilling call of the cardinal. He thinks he is hidden, but his red feathers against the green betray him.

As I view all these things, I am filled with joy beyond expressing. My soul thrills to the very name of "springtime." Why is it that I am so happy at this particular time of the year? The other seasons are beautiful, but never do I find life so restful, so calm and full of contentment as I do now. Furthermore, it is my belief that I am not alone; there are others who feel the same way.

Maybe it's because of resurrection. God has turned a new page in the book of life, and it's clean. Man, it is given you to write whatever you will thereupon. He gives us two springtimes, and at one time in life they coincide. Springtime of life—springtime of seasons—how alike they are. Tender young humans as well as plants thrill to the beaming of the sun. Some are scorched by its rays and die. Others are made stronger by its presence and grow into what God meant them to be. Again, spring offers inspiration. Who can look on the brightness of Nature arrayed in her green garb, while over the heaving breast of old Mother Earth a million streams laugh and play, and not aspire to order his life in harmony with the supreme laws? I guarantee that no person can step outside and view the art of God as it is now revealed and still hold in his heart an ill will toward a fellow man. As the cool breeze fans his cheek and Nature pours her healing balm into his soul, rest comes quickly and all unhappiness is forgotten.

We cannot look into the future. It is given us to see only the present. But we can reach for higher things and be satisfied that God did not place us in a world without sunshine. Of course, there are clouds, but after all, there's beauty. Too, there's abundant happiness in this world.

Behold the lambs that frolic in green pastures. They live in the glorious shade of the green trees and are contented with their lot. We, who have so much more intelligence, know that better is coming, if only we wait long enough for it. "Springtime" should be eternal in the souls of men.

Last night when I lay down to sleep, I heard in my soul the call of spring and the merry note of the mocking bird mingled with the sweet low call of the dove. As its last coo died away in the distance I fell asleep—contented.

—Lottie Fortner.

THE APACHE CHANT

We're Apache tribesmen,
Dauntless, brave, and strong.
To defend our Totem Pole
We would suffer long.
Gathered 'round our Council Fire
We'll smoke our pipe of peace.
Real atta kulas kulas we
Till life's pow wow we cease.

We will be real red men,
Honoring our band.
We will make our tomahawks
Feared throughout the land.
To our sacred Hunting Ground
We give this song of praise.
Her unstained black and gold
Shall reign throughout our days.

—Frances Strange.

APACHELAND

Many happy days are past,
Including the first day and the last
In Apacheland.
We have spent a glorious time
Through many pleasures and joys divine
In Apacheland.
We have laughed away two short years
Unknown to sorrow, so unknown to tears,
In Apacheland.
We have learned a lasting way
To find our path from day to day
In Apacheland.
We have received our first insight
Into the deeper things of life
In Apacheland.
So in the future we will find
A joy when we ourselves remind
Of days spent with that happy band
In our never forgotten Apacheland.

Honor to Whom Honor Is Due

In every assemblage there are some who are particularly capable and efficient. The Junior College is fortunate in having a large number of such persons in its student body this year. These students are not only talented but are exceedingly loyal to the college, and therefore use their abilities for the general welfare of the school. Oftentimes the services of such students are rendered in a way so unostentatious that the whole group is scarcely aware of those who deserve the credit. Therefore, it has become customary to devote a page of our yearbook to the recognition of these students. This year we will honor Doris Williford, Annie Price, Brannon Taylor, Lottie Fortner, and Robert McCoy.

Doris Williford, because of her artistic faculties, her histrionic talent, and her journalistic aptitude, has proved herself indispensable to the Apaches this year. As the efficient editor of the Alcalde, as an active participant in the work of Las Mascaras, and as an enthusiastic member of the Atta Kula Kula Hiking Club, Doris has contributed generously to the enrichment of the college life. Her bubbling vivacity and her friendly good nature have endeared her to both faculty and students.

We commend Annie Price because of her hearty co-operation in every constructive measure which the college has undertaken. In reviewing the various activities of the year, such as the Thanksgiving drive for the library, the picnic given by the Senior Council Group for the high school mid-term graduates, the Student-Faculty banquet, the sale of stationery by the A. K. K.'s, Annie Price is remembered as shouldering her full share of the work. In whatever capacity Annie served, those in charge knew that her part would be well done. With all of these extra-curricula activities, Annie maintains a high degree of scholarship. She does all her work creditably, wholeheartedly, and happily.

Brannon Taylor, president of the Apache Council, member of Las Mascaras, and assistant business manager of the Alcalde, has rendered faithful services to his alma mater. He is thoroughly dependable and is never too busy with personal affairs to aid in the promotion of some worthy enterprise for T. J. C. Brannon has been instrumental in maintaining the spirit of co-operation which has characterized the student body this year. Gentlemanly and unselfish of manner, Brannon has won the admiration and respect of his associates.

We are glad to honor Lottie Fortner. Although Lottie holds no office in the student body, she is conscious that a part of the responsibility is hers, and she assumes this responsibility with enthusiasm and cheerfulness. As a member of the Alcalde staff, Lottie has had charge of the kodak section, a work which she has done with alacrity and skill. An active participant in numerous college affairs, hiking club, a member of the basketball team, a weekly contributor to the Pow-Wow, Lottie has been a valuable Apache. Also Lottie's name has consistently appeared on the Honor Roll.

Robert McCoy, by his constant upholding of those ideals which mark a wholesome college spirit, is deservant of honor. Although he signs the name of "Lochinvar" to the numerous lines of lilting verse which he has contributed to the Apache Pow-Wow, "Sir Galahad" would be a more appropriate pseudonym. Robert is keenly sensitive to beauty and the amenities of life. Much of the cleverness and originality of the Student-Faculty banquet was due to Robert's ingenuity. Active in Las Mascaras, always ready to do his part in any undertaking, and yet unconcerned with praise or credit, Robert is truly a "prince of a fellow."

It is with pleasure and pride that we honor these students.

ON GIRLS

Seth Potter: Girls are the root of all evil.

George Eubank: The Greeks regarded with suspicion one of the fair sex who had brains. So do I.

Claude Howard: I believe in giving the girls a break.

Henry Reynolds: Girls—most disagreeable things on earth.

Olney Davis: To know the right girl is a liberal education.

Coulter Matthews: If I were a girl, I would cultivate the art of listening. No girl can talk as interestingly as she looks.

* * *

Salesman: Yes, sir, that's the smartest hat we've got.

David Connally: It don't have to be smart. I'll put the brains in it myself.

THE HEE AND HAW CLUB

This club was formed in Uncle Ike's mule barn in the year 1930 to perpetuate the friendship formed by some worthy members of our school. Since its advent, it has made great progress due to ardent support of its members and the exclusiveness of the order. Its initiation ceremonies are very impressive.

The reporter, Pully Dean, came idly into the office. "Well," said Breezy, "What did our speaker in chapel have to say?"

Pully: "Nothing."

Breezy: "Well, keep it down in a column."

Pete White as a young lawyer pleading his first case had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a claim against a railroad for killing twenty-four hogs. He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the damage.

Pete: "Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen of the jury, twenty-four—twice the number you have there in the jury box.

Ann Price: "I've been tryin' to think of a word for about two weeks."

Breezy: "What about fortnight?"

FACULTY COMMANDMENTS

Thou shalt study no other lessons before mine.

Thou shalt make an effort to do all the work I require.

Thou shalt not jest about thy teacher.

Thou shalt keep busy during the supervised study period.

Thou shalt honor thy teacher lest thy days may be short in his class.

Thou shalt not speak without permission.

Thou shalt not chew gum, formal or informal.

Thou shalt have a pleasing attitude.

Thou shalt not copy the work of thy classmate.

Thou shalt bring thy material to class—thy book, thy pencil, thy paper, thy admit card.

STUDENT COMMANDMENTS

I shalt study only upon special occasions.

I shalt not permit my neighbors to study when I am in study hall.

I shalt borrow anything I may require.

I shalt forget to return all borrowed articles.

I shalt not come to school on holidays.

I shalt not bring books to class.

I shalt not keep quiet while the teacher is talking, nor throw out my gum.

I shalt attend the movies every night in order to further my education.

I shalt cut class only when I am absent.

I shall not pass.

SONG

Tune—"That's My Weakness Now"

We're just bad old maids,
You have heard of good old maids,
But we're just bad old maids,
And we must have some men;
We dance in step and tune,
Sit under a Harvest Moon,
Maybe you'll hear real soon
That we have got our men;
Oh my! Oh me!
Oh we should be good,
We would be good, but gee—
We like riding home,
We never cared for going home,
But we can't be walking home;
And we must get our men!

GENTLE READER:

We hope you like the book.
If you don't—
Don't tell the editors
(They're blondes!)
Don't tell the managers anyway.
They're too interested in other affairs to listen).
Don't tell the staffs. (They're too hot to be bothered.)
In fact—Just read it and weep!

Norrine—"I have a cousin in Mexico who is a politician."

Fay S.: "What's he running for?"

Norrine: "Texas."

* * *

Miss Brandenburg said to one of her Freshman classes: "Words ending in 'ous' mean 'full of'; as joyous means full of joy and vigorous means full of vigor. Give an example of such a word."

Lat.: "Pious."

MODERN AS YOUTH ITSELF!

Within the space of a score of years, the scope of Southwestern Engraving Company has increased from the parent plant in Fort Worth to an organization of nine plants.

Pioneering the field in the introduction of modernistic art, a personal service bureau composed of former college annual editors and managers, the budget and dummy system, and field service men, the name "Southwestern" has become synonymous with art motifs that are distinctive, an understanding, helpful service, and printing plates that "print right."
